Senator Patrick Burns Died at Calgary Wed'y

The last of the West's great cattle barons, and Calgary's best-loved citizens, Senator Patrick Burns, chairman of the Order of St. Gregory the Great, died at the family residence in Calgary early Wednesday morning.

The cause was for Senator Burns in his 80th year. Four months after the death of his only son, Major Senator Burns suffered a paralytic stroke a few years ago, from the effects of which he never fully recovered, but in recent months his condition was much improved. Ten days ago, however, he developed a slight cold, and Tuesday evening symptoms developed which aroused grave concern. At midnight the family was summoned to his bedside, the doctor pronouncing them before sinking into unconsciousness, which heralded his end.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 o'clock Saturday in the St. Mary's Cathedral, Calgary.

Scout Notes

Under the auspices of the local Social Credit Group, a dance will be held on the 5th of March in the Masonic Hall, part of the proceeds for which will be devoted to Scout purposes. There should be a first class affair, and the members of the Group are sparing no trouble in order to make the affair a success.

The Chesterfield thrown donated by Mrs. Geo. Morrison to the Scout will be sold at the occasion.

It is understood that orders for uniforms for all the Scouts have gone forward, and that very soon the Boy Scouts will be equipped with a brand new navy outfit.

At the last meeting there was almost a hundred per cent turn-out. Only one her-sistered girl was from the country, and found it very difficult to get in on account of the roads.

BLOCKED ROADS PROVE HARDSHIPS TO HUSSEAR

Hussear, Feb. 17th.—The blocked roads here between and Bassano have proved a great hardship for several families. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Slemko and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Armstrong took the train to Bassano on February 7th, as they had ill and were confined with an operation. They went by car but found it impossible to return till the train on Feb. 15th, Mrs. S. W. Lawrie who had been ill in the Bassano hospital for the past three weeks returned on the same train. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ruskey were among those who returned on Monday's train from Bassano. Clayton Crory became very ill and Mr. H. Crory was unable to get him to Bassano or Saturday, so his mother took them the whole of Saturday afternoon to make the trip and one horse was practically played out. Leaving his son in Bassano Mr. Crory had to take practically two days for the return trip, all roads being closed. They're blocked except the Calgary highway, which can be used if much snow-shelling is done. So far Hussear has been fairly free from illness, having escaped the epidemics which have been ravaging most adjacent towns. Mr. and Mrs. Hooley, who had been in Calgary for some time owing to Mrs. Sleeter's illness, returned by train.

STORM CAUSES DAMAGE TO POWER LINES

Stan Warner was a very busy man on the evening of the 17th. The high wind of the previous day blew part of the E. L. D. Sheep Sheds against a high-line pole, causing two of the line's short circuit. This resulted in one of the main lines breaking and another, preventing any further serious damage. Mr. Warner, upon locating the trouble, gave his employer, Mr. J. Fraser and Mr. G. Lepage hurriedly to work and leaving them the necessary equipment to get the broken lines back into service. The machine will weigh about one ton and a half, and will have some features not seen before seen on a machine of this type. It will be a standstill for the past week or ten days the machine will be put into operation as soon as possible to relieve the situation.

Ancient Custom Lingers On

Early Church Started Fish Habit Persists To This Day

Fishermen from the Atlantic to the Pacific are hopeful that the present efforts of the Canadian Government to encourage the development of salmon fishing in the Pacific Northwest will result in more fish throughout the week rather than continuing this decay to Friday.

This fish has been eaten since ancient times. The early Christian Church decreed that no meat should be eaten on Fridays and fast days, but that fish might be substituted.

From that arises a practice that has persisted down to the present time and among the people here to go to the virtual exclusion of other days.

According to leading executives of the fishing industry this habit is not only harmful to the industry but is robbing the public of its advantages. People eat more fish now than ever before, the week they would be assured of fresher fish and they would get it at lower prices. The increased demand for the products of the sea, lake and river would give an outlet to the fisherman and the price paid by the public would drop, the price to the fishermen would increase, owing to the lessening of the present overhead caused by the public's habit of eating fish mostly on Fridays.

No one can say that the medical profession are behind the movement to encourage people to eat more fish throughout the week. Many Medical Columnists of newspapers have on record as to the nutritive and valuable use of fish. With such a strong argument in favor of fish, the Romans, they say, fish is an important article of diet, as nourishing as other foods and more easily digested.

SNOW PLOW UNDER CONSTRUCTION AT BROOKS

Something new in the design of snow plows has been constructed by mechanics of a Brooks garage, under the direction of Mr. C. A. Johnson, owner of the machine. The plow is mounted on two skids and is so constructed that two propellers geared to revolve in opposite directions that removes the need of a metal shoe extending above one foot in front of the skids and four or five inches from the ground. The machine is pushed by a truck or tractor, and as it encounters a snowdrift, the substance is forced against a plate set about five feet apart on each side, these two propellers driven by a thirty horse power engine to move the snow to both sides of the road.

The machine will weigh about one ton and a half, and will have some features not seen before seen on a machine of this type. It will be a standstill for the past week or ten days the machine will be put into operation as soon as possible to relieve the situation.

A farm boy enterprise convinces the old man

Some years ago a Canadian engaged in conducting fertilizer demonstrations in Michigan, called on a farmer and asked him to let him have some fertilizer and he gave him two bags of fertilizer to try out. The offer was refused, that the farmer had never used commercial fertilizer and had no faith in them. Wishing to rid of the two bags in his possession, he called on the old man. The old man was granted permission grudgingly to leave them in the shed until he should call for them later. In the fall he called again on the farmer and inquired of the farmer's son concerning the fertilizer. "Oh," said the son, "the day when you will put it on our acre of beet land, I want you to see the crop." In the field they found beet contemplating the fertilized area. He was a student of agriculture, admitting frankly that the fertilizer had been applied to the beet field, and commanding his son's enterprise in making the experiment.

THE WEATHER

For the third consecutive week Bassano has been completely isolated as far as automobile transportation is concerned, and in most periods of roads being blocked prior to the last blizzard so hot it had the roads with snow that now the snow plows have been unable to penetrate the hard packed drifts.

Mail service to Gem has been discontinued only after the most trying difficulties. Lew Standen who operates this service has had to relay mail and supplies for the past few weeks. On several occasions teams have been used to transport the mail to Coopers where it has been picked up by another horse outfit and carried on to Gem Postoffice.

At the time of writing a snow plow is reported at Brooks another at Glencoe, so it is hoped that roads will soon be opened to Bassano, allowing traffic to resume as usual.

He drove the overland stage between Walla Walla and Pendleton in '90, and midway in the route he crashed into the trail of Lew Wallace, driving in the opposite direction. In 1892 he became a teamster. Among the chiefest he had, Alonso, the chauffeur and driver of the racing industry in the Inland Empire but with the laying of the rail the Warren company's empire of horses dwindled to nothing. His silvery white locks were a wonder to see and he was a ten-gallon horse who ran him right in later years. THE B. N. A. ACT AGAIN

When the Privy Council declared invalid The Weekly Day of Rest in Industrial Undertakings Act, The Minimum Wage Act, and the Limitations of Hours of Work Act of 1935, the judges constituted a severe set back to the hopes and aspirations of labor leaders in their endeavors to improve working conditions throughout the Dominion.

Severe pressure will undoubtedly be brought to bear in an effort to carry out the reform measures, but it will be difficult to give effective limitation to the hours of labor, and practical establishment of minimum wages on a uniform and Dominion wide basis through the media of the Provinces.

By the very nature of these, they ought to be a Federal responsibility, and if the B. N. A. Act is ineffective, then steps should be taken to vest that responsibility in the Federal Power.

Recently Premier Michael Hepburn of Ontario suggested measures to co-ordinate the work of Provincial and Federal Departments of Agriculture. He at least, appears to have seen the folly of such duplication. But why "Co-ordination" and not amalgamation with the full power vested in the Dominion?

The present Dominion Government with the blessings of the Opposition, amalgamated the Department of Railways and Canals and the Department of Marine into the New Department of Transport. Likewise several other Departments have been amalgamated into the New Department of Mines and National Resources. All of which we say is to the good.

Another indication of the trend in this direction is the proposal of Sir Edward Beatty, which cannot be dismissed as lightly as some would wish, that the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways be unified "for the purposes of Administration."

We only mention the foregoing to emphasize again the suggestion recently made in these columns, that sooner or later, in order to solve the legislative impasse or conflict between Federal and Provincial Powers, some revision must be made of the sadly out-moded B. N. A. Act, and to place the power over practically everything except, perhaps, Public Works, in the hands of the powers that be at Ottawa, where they rightly belong.

SPECULATION

"Are you aware that today there is showing itself in this Country the same spirit of speculative over-optimism which brought upon us the crash of 1929?"—Sir Edward Beatty, on 22nd January, 1937.

Sir Edward did not condemn speculation in its entirety. Indeed he found a place for the legitimate speculator in our complex civilization. The important word in the above seems to be "over-optimism."

Looking at the picture in the city of Calgary today, and to a lesser extent, throughout southern Alberta as a whole, in the recent oil flurry, or as some term it "oil boom", we obtain a glimpse of what is meant. Very few know just exactly what they are buying from the standpoint of values. It is oil. There is money to be made in oil. Therefor, buy oil. Widows, stenographers, married women with no business experience, the office boy, and perhaps those on relief all must have their pretty certificates.

Well, we thought a lesson might have been taught in the past, but we hope the lesson in the future will not be quite so severe.

LOCAL BASEBALL

Apparently a serious and timely effort is going to be made to revive baseball in the community. Already one meeting has been held and officers elected, with other meetings in the offing, in order to ensure a healthy start.

A committee of the baseball club will wait on the Board of Trade at the Board's next meeting to discuss the matter of grounds.

In this connection it may as well be pointed out that the Board of Trade in laying out the plans for the new sports grounds west of the school had baseball in mind, with the result that a first class diamond can easily be arranged without interfering in any way with the present lay-out. We imagine the delegation will meet with the sympathy of the Board of Trade as a whole and such help as that body can reasonably give, will be willingly extended.

It may be too much to hope for a championship team all at once, but at the very least, the players should have the benefit of some real clean, healthy sport, and a lot of games for the sake of the game itself. In time, and with the assistance of some of the older and more experienced players, even if they may be classed as "hams", the game will revive and a creditable brand of ball produced.

CIVILLY DEAD

According to a ruling of the Appellate Court of New York, sentence of death in that state means that a man is "civilly dead", and further that the wife of a condemned man has the right to marry again before the death sentence is carried out on her living husband.

The second husband could not obtain an annulment of his marriage on the grounds that his wife had a husband (the condemned man) living at the time of the marriage, because according to the judgment the condemned man was "Civically Dead". Just another case of marrying in haste and repenting at leisure.

DEFENCE OF CANADA

Compared to the cost per capita in New Zealand, Australia, and the youngest ex-Dominion, South Africa, Canada's appropriation for the defence of her shores—it is only sheer hypocrisy and the knowledge that it sounds better in certain quarters that restrains us from saying "For Empire Defence"—looks like a penny ante proposition in a game that persuaded the British Government to propose spending seven and a half billion dollars within the next five years.

WHY DOES A TOWN SUDDENLY AWAKEN

Items appearing in prairie news papers stating that the town of A—has organized a booster's club or that the new Board of Trade of B—is establishing a community hall, promote the curious readers to wonder why. Why, after so many years of inactivity, are these towns suddenly becoming civic-minded and starting improvements?

A variety of factors come to light when a "probe" is instituted, among which even minor elements such as exaggeration and splits play a part. For example, the population of certain towns has definitely declined. The bank failed out, and various business closed their doors. When the visitors visited in neighboring communities their friends would say, "My, your town is certainly getting out!"

"Show Cussiness" held back on coming to the rescue of the town from doing his bit in his locality, and the form of a business rival, departed to other climate. Then he rose up like Mussolini and put his town on the map with a swimming pool, gardens of trees, and such.

But the main factor accounting local improvements at the present day is a conviction, becoming widespread among dwellers in small towns, that a man can clean up $10,000 in his pocket and his home, and other pastures have not expanded in recent years, each community is becoming "home" to the people settled there, the more so as their children branch out, then want to visit the place that for them holds all the glamour of childhood's hours.

Once the realization breaks upon a community that its residents are "home" earning a good chance for permanent happiness with radios, cars, roads all the time, then beautification and development begins. The aged want something that will be a replica of the town they remember in Ontario, England, Ohio or Central Europe. They create a demand for a skating rink, a ball diamond, a rink for skating and a field for baseball, among other things. By working together they make a town which becomes a very desirable dwelling place with its amusement park, its streets, its parks, its playgrounds, trees presenting a restful and attractive picture to the traveler passing by.

HEALTH
A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADATHE VALUE OF CLEANLINESS

There has always been an association between dirt and disease. In their earliest days, health departments were occupied in cleaning up the towns and cities because it was believed that disease was bred in dirt.

We have learned that there is a great difference in the amount of dirt. The only dirt that is dangerous is that which is contaminated by secretions of the human or animal body. The reason for this is that the body's own secretions carry away from the body the disease germs which may be present in it.

Tin cans are unsightly, but tin cans are not in themselves going to cause disease. Potatoes or apples, in rotting, give off an offensive smell but do not necessarily cause any disease. The clean person who has a cold, or a cough, and sneezes with a handkerchief, who keeps flies out of his home, who washes his hands before he eats, is not going to live in a dirty, untidy place. The clean person, however, does not necessarily get rid of all dirt. This is why generally speaking, health and cleanliness go hand in hand.

Because a clean city or town, by care of all dirt, makes sure that dangerous dirt is disposed of, because it is surrounded by a clean environment, personal cleanliness and neatness, and because cleanliness makes for more comfortable and happier lives, all efforts towards securing and keeping a city or town clean are to be commended and should be supported.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
ART AND PHOTOGRAPHY

Here is an example of the innumerable opportunities given to the owner of a camera to satisfy his feelings for the artistic.

WHAT CAN I DO—I CAN'T PAINT OR DRAW! is often the complaint of persons who have strong feelings for the artistic and the desire to express them.

Not all these persons realize that within the past few years modern cameras and photographic materials have made it possible to express practically to everybody. Because of the capability of today's improved equipment to produce good pictures under a wide range of light conditions, he can no longer feel that the technique of photography is beyond him. The art of artistic expression by means of pictures is no longer limited by the refusal of one's mind to cooperate with a paint brush. And because there are now more photographic records of places or people usually interesting only to those familiar with them, but to the average person, all who behold them, because of their universal appeal to the senses, emotions and imagination.

He can still further in the creation of his artistic ideas if he will learn the techniques of producing his own prints. In such things as the selection of the type of photographic paper, the masking of the negative, the lighting of the scene to be photographed, the original composition, he is given still further opportunity for exercising his artistic talents.

But he can go still farther in the creation of his artistic ideas if he will learn the techniques of producing his own prints. In such things as the selection of the type of photographic paper, the masking of the negative, the lighting of the scene to be photographed, the original composition, he is given still further opportunity for exercising his artistic talents.

Because of the fact that he could draw or paint, if you like, but don't be stopped by your inability to do so. Realize the possibilities of your imagination and the artistic value of standup reproductions of photographs in magazines and newspapers. Go to photographic exhibits, and let your imagination run wild. You may make a picture that will exceed the imagination of the artist who painted it. That is the secret of art expression. With these purposes in view, see what you can do with your own camera. There are opportunities everywhere.
